Congratulations on the completion of your degree! Earning a university degree is a milestone in your life, and you and your family and friends should be very proud of your accomplishment. I predict that in the years to come, you will increasingly appreciate the education you have received at Maryland. You have learned the current theories that underlie your field, and you have also learned how to formulate your ideas. You may have thought that you were coming here to get your questions answered, but by now you have realized that you really came here to question your answers.

The University of Maryland has offered you opportunities to develop your interests and extend your horizons. Your experiences here will guide you throughout your life. You have also made friends and found mentors, and they too will enrich your life in ways that no one can predict today.

As you leave us, I would like you to know how much we, the faculty and staff, appreciate your accomplishments as scholar, artist, athlete and leader—as individuals. You have enriched our lives and have helped the university reach new levels of distinction and esteem. You are now a member of the university's alumni family, and we welcome you to this special group.

I urge you to stay connected with us and take full advantage of the benefits of being an alum of the University of Maryland. I hope that you will return to campus often, continue to support us, and help new generations of students shape their futures. Please consider joining us on April 24 next year for Maryland Day 2004, the campus-wide open house held each year on the last Saturday in April.

You have my very best wishes for all your endeavors. We are proud of each and every one of you!

Yours sincerely,

C. D. Mote, Jr.

President

On behalf of the University of Maryland Alumni Association, congratulations! I add our very best wishes to those you have received from your faculty and other university friends.

Your commencement ceremony today includes a special tradition. You will be officially inducted as a member of the Maryland Alumni Association by Cynthia Flanders '82, M.B.A. '88, this year's association president. Our gift to you on this day is a one-year complimentary membership.

Membership in the alumni association gives you an opportunity to stay involved with your alma mater, to explore new places and to continue to learn. Our programs meet many needs and interests—whether cultural, educational or recreational. Join us on a trip to Italy where a university professor is your guide, at the opera with representatives from the School of Music and, of course, at athletic events. Game watches around the country let you cheer on the Terps with fellow Maryland fans.

Learn more about the benefits and services that membership brings—and how to activate your membership online—at www.alumni.umd.edu.

The alumni association is also very pleased to offer you access to the Terp Alumni Network. The network is a free online alumni community, featuring an alumni directory, online class notes and e-mail forwarding. Imagine your very own permanent and personal Terp e-mail address!

Whether it's virtual or face-to-face, we look forward to connecting with you often in the years ahead. Again, congratulations—and welcome to the Maryland family of alumni. There's no better time to be a Terp!

Sincerely,

Danita D. Nias '81

Today you complete the journey that was undertaken several years ago, arriving proudly at the threshold of a new life. When you look back, can you see how this journey has changed you? As you sit here today, what events stand out in your mind as experiences that showed you which path to travel?

We have each followed a unique path but have reached a common destination. As seniors, it is easier to list the ways in which we are different from each other than the ways in which we are bound together.

We are accustomed to describing students in groups—commuters, residents; members of ethnic, religious, or professional organizations; students in particular departments and colleges. These differences should be admired and respected as should the many qualities we share.

From this point, you can reflect on past journeys. Remember what you learned along the way about who you are and what you are capable of achieving.

Know that your time spent at the University of Maryland will help you arrive at your next destination. Finally, always consider our campus to be another home, a stop on your life's journey to which you can always return.

Congratulations!

A Bold New Era

From its pre-Civil War roots as the state's first agricultural college and one of America's original land grant institutions, the University of Maryland has emerged as a public research university of national stature, highly regarded for its broad base of excellence in teaching and research. Maryland's beautiful 1,200-acre campus is in the heart of the I-270 research corridor that is fueling a burgeoning information technology and biotechnology industry.

One of the largest research universities in the United States, current enrollment at Maryland stands at 25,240 undergraduate and 9,561 graduate students. There are 95 undergraduate programs, 93 master's programs, 71 doctoral programs, and one first professional degree program.

The momentum of recent years has poised the university to take leadership in shaping the research university of the 21st century. By virtually every measure of quality, the University of Maryland has gained national recognition as one of the fastest rising comprehensive research institutions in the country. According to the latest rankings in U.S. News & World Report, Maryland now places among the nation's top 20 public universities, and the quality of our faculty—with one Nobel Prize winner, six Pulitzer Prize winners and scores of Fulbright scholars—is among the finest of any research university in the United States.

There are 13 schools and colleges within the organizational structure of the University of Maryland. Seven of these units—the Smith School of Business, the College of Education, the Clark School of Engineering, the Philip Merrill College of Journalism, the College of Computer, Mathematical and Physical Sciences, the College of Information Studies and the School of Public Affairs—have been recognized by their peers and in various rankings as among the 25 best in the nation. Today, there are 67 programs at Maryland ranked in the top 25 nationally for their academic quality. The breadth of this excellence is a source of pride for students, faculty and staff, and is endorsement for the university's flagship status among the state's institutions of higher education.

The university also continues to move forward in the quality of our students and the support of our faithful alumni. Just within the last year, the average high school G.P.A. of entering students has zoomed upward from 3.76 to 3.86, and the average SATs are now 1246. Once these new freshmen complete their academic journey, they will join a rapidly increasing family of alumni who are proud to be called Terps. Maryland Alumni Association membership is increasing at a record rate, with a 20 percent increase in membership in the last four years and nearly 2,000 people joining the Alumni Association just within the last four months.

The university's commitment to quality education in a research environment is key to its academic reputation and the success of its graduates. More than 100 centers and institutes are engaged in research and outreach. The research enterprise infuses the curriculum at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, exposing students to the most pressing issues and challenges in their discipline and training them to respond with rigor as well as creativity to contemporary problems.

Faculty at the University of Maryland, in all fields of knowledge, are engaged at the highest levels of national and international concern. The university's location near the center of federal policy-making and international political and economic activity enables it to play an active role in research and analysis of public policy. Strong links to the scientific and technological agencies and organizations of the federal government drive research in the environment, engineering, physics, computer science, life sciences and agriculture. Scholarship in the arts, humanities and social sciences is marked by the spirit of intellectual diversity and interdisciplinary collaboration.

Maryland is one of the research universities in the prestigious 61-member Association of American Universities and the only public institution in the Maryland-D.C. area with membership in the nation's most distinguished honor society, Phi Beta Kappa. It is classified as a Research-I university by the Carnegie Foundation by virtue of the range of its baccalaureate programs, the amount of federal support received, and the number of doctoral degrees awarded each year, sharing that honor with the top research universities in the country.

Sponsored research grant and contract awards to the University of Maryland surged to an all-time high of $352 million during the fiscal year that ended June 30, 2002. This is $44 million more than the previous year's mark of $308 million and continues a rapid rate of growth that has seen research funding double in the past five years. These funds for research, training and outreach and other public service activities come from a variety of sources, including the federal government, state government, corporations and foundations.

The Office of Technology Commercialization (OTC) at the University of Maryland was established in 1986 to facilitate the transfer of information, life and physical science inventions developed at the university to business and industry. In the past 16 years, OTC has recorded more than 1,115 technologies, secured more than 180 patents and licensed more than 600 technologies, generating more than $20.8 million in technology transfer income. Through its Maryland Technology Enterprise Institute, the university collaborates with more than 280 businesses and has spawned 45 new companies—including two of Maryland's 20 public biotech companies.

Signs of a University On the Move

The University of Maryland now ranks in the top 20 among national public universities, according to the latest rankings by U.S. News & World Report. Here are other highlights about the quality of Maryland's faculty, research and academic programs:

- The university's rising quality is combined with diversity. Students of color represent a third of our enrollment, and Maryland is among the nation's top five research universities for African American graduates with bachelor's degrees and Ph.D.s, according to Black Issues in Higher Education.
- In its April 2003 issue, Entrepreneur magazine named the Robert H. Smith School of Business as one of the nation's top schools for entrepreneurship. The magazine placed the Smith School No. 3 nationwide based on a survey of alumni, and No. 5 nationwide in rankings based on a survey of peer program directors.
- The university's Hinman CEOs program was recognized as a national leader in entrepreneurship education with the Price Institute Innovative Entrepreneurship Award. The honor was announced during the Roundtable on Entrepreneurship Education for Engineers. Maryland beat out Harvard, Georgia Tech, Case Western and the University of Southern California, among others.
- NASA has chosen the University of Maryland as one of only seven academic institutions nationwide to comprise the first National Institute of Aerospace, a research and teaching facility that will offer master's and doctoral programs in advanced aerospace fields.
- The university generates $5.93 of economic activity for every dollar appropriated by the General Assembly, providing a statewide impact of nearly $1.8 billion annually.

History

The University of Maryland was founded in 1807 in Baltimore as a faculty-owned College of Medicine. The medical school was considered one of the top schools in the country, attracting notable professors and lecturers from throughout the world. In its beginning, tuition cost $140, grades were sent home weekly to parents, and students could obtain room and board for $300 annually.

Five years later, the growing institution was renamed the University of Maryland. Despite the name, the university was not considered a state institution as it was still owned and operated by faculty. Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, the first dental school in the world, became a part of the university in 1840, awarding the first Doctor of Dental Surgery (D.D.S.) degree in 1841.

In 1859, the Maryland Agricultural College, which would evolve into the University of Maryland, College Park, was opened under a charter secured by a group of Maryland planters in 1856. In addition to spending one hour each day hoeing or plowing on the college farm, students took a broad range of courses in ancient and modern languages, natural sciences, English and mathematics. After a disastrous fire on campus in 1912, the state acquired the college and rebuilt it.

In 1920, the state legislature combined the College Park institution with the professional schools in Baltimore to form an expanded University of Maryland. The entity eventually grew to include campuses in Baltimore County, the Eastern Shore and University College, a continuing education institution.

The following decades saw the increasing growth of student population, excellence in programs and curricula, and the burgeoning of the University of Maryland, College Park, into a nationally recognized research institution.

July 1, 1988, marked the dawn of a new era in higher education in the state of Maryland, as the five components of the university were merged with six other state universities and colleges to form the University System of Maryland, and College Park secured its flagship status with a mandate to become one of the pre-eminent research universities in the nation.

The Alumni Association

With alumni clubs from Miami to Taipei, Taiwan, the Maryland Alumni Association strives to keep and strengthen ties between the university and its graduates. Member events such as pre-game parties, bull roasts, picnics, golf tournaments, dinner cruises and a subscription to the University of Maryland alumni magazine help keep alumni connected to the university and to each other. All graduating seniors and successful master's and Ph.D. candidates receive a one-year free membership in the Maryland Alumni Association.

Customs of Commencement

Early commencement ceremonies at the University of Maryland were marked with great fanfare and celebration. The faculty gave huge banquets for the graduates the night before the event. The following morning, crowds gathered to watch the young graduates parade. It was a gala social occasion, attracting not only friends and relatives, but the fashionable elite of the day. At the ceremony, prayers were recited, speeches were made, and honorary degrees were awarded to distinguished figures from across the country. Finally, as the audience cheered and threw flowers, the graduates came forward to collect their Latin-inscribed degrees.

Academic Costume

The black caps and gowns worn by the students and faculty in the academic procession have been the traditional costume of scholars since the Middle Ages. The ordinary dress of the scholar, whether student or teacher, was similar to that of a cleric. Caps and gowns were probably worn to keep students warm in unheated buildings. Many medieval scholars were tonsured, like monks, and hoods served to cover their shaved heads until the skull cap later took its place.

Even after the Civil War, most students at American universities wore caps and gowns daily while in residence. These varied in design until they were standardized by the American Intercollegiate Commission in 1894. At that time it was decided that all robes would be black. Colors on the trim of the gown were also standardized to indicate the scholar's academic discipline.

A list of department colors follows:

Agriculture: Maize
Arts, Letters, Humanities: White
Business Administration, Commercial Science: Drab
Dentistry: Lilac
Economics: Copper
Education: Light Blue
Engineering: Orange
Fine Arts, Architecture: Brown
Forestry: Russet
Home Economics: Maroon
Journalism: Crimson
Law: Purple
Library Science: Lemon
Medicine: Green
Music: Pink
Nursing: Apricot
Oratory, Speech: Silver Gray
Pharmacy: Olive
Physical Education: Sage Green
Philanthropy: Rose
Philosophy: Dark Blue
Public Administration, Foreign Service: Peacock Blue
Public Health: Salmon
Science: Golden Yellow
Social Work: Citron
Theology and Divinity: Scarlet
Veterinary Sciences: Gray

The tassel may also be colored to represent an academic discipline or it may be black. Officially, the tassel is permitted "to lie where it will" on the mortarboard. However, numerous institutions have adopted the practice of having degree candidates wear the tassel on the right front side at the start of the commencement ceremony and then shift them to the left side after degrees are awarded.

Student Marshals

Elected through a nomination process, student marshals are senior leaders who play an important role in the graduation ceremony. Student marshals assist in organizing the thousands of graduates, leading them smoothly through the commencement procession. They also supply extra caps and hoods, and bobby pins to keep headwear secure. May 2003 marshals are listed on page 75 of this booklet.

Senior Gift

The senior gift is a university tradition dating back 93 years. The first senior gift, the iron gate entrance at the Rossborough Inn, was given by the Class of 1910 (although the gate itself was not erected until 1941). The Class of 2003 will leave its mark with an official University of Maryland seal to be placed at the new Samuel Riggs IV Alumni Center. Construction of the new facility begins this June on a parcel of land in front of Tyser Tower at Byrd Stadium. When completed, the Riggs Alumni Center will be an inviting place for alumni and friends to meet, watch athletic games and celebrate the Terrapin spirit.

The purpose of the senior gift is twofold. Each year the senior class leaves behind a memorable legacy for new students and visitors, and provides the university with a gift that enhances the campus atmosphere.

Past senior gifts have included: the Testudo statue (Class of 1933), the lights around the "M" in the traffic circle on Campus Drive (Class of 1986), restoration of the Chapel chimes and clock face (Class of 1992) and the Bronzed Seal on North Gate House (Class of 1995).

Academic Degrees

A degree is awarded for the successful completion of a course of study. There are more than 1,600 different academic degrees currently conferred by colleges and universities nationwide. The University of Maryland offers degrees in 95 undergraduate majors, 93 master's programs, 71 doctoral programs and one first professional degree.

The Doctor's Degree

The doctor's degree represents the most advanced earned degree conferred by American institutions. There are two distinct types: the practitioner's degree and the research degree. The first type represents advanced training for the practice of various professions, principally Doctor of Medicine, Juris Doctor, Doctor of Pharmacy, and Doctor of Veterinary Medicine. These degrees do not involve the completion of original research by the student. The University of Maryland, at the professional school in Baltimore, awarded the first two dental degrees ever on March 9, 1841, and invented the name of the degree, Doctor of Dental Surgery (D.D.S.).

The University of Maryland conveys the Doctor of Veterinary Medicine (D.V.M.) to approximately 90 students each year in a program that was instituted in 1980. Graduates receive a diploma containing the seals of both the University of Maryland and its partner institution, the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

The second type is the research doctorate representing prolonged periods of advanced study. A dissertation that usually accompanies the study is intended to contribute substantially to the body of knowledge on the subject. The most important of these, the Doctor of Philosophy, no longer has an implication of philosophy for its holder, but represents advanced research in any of the major fields of knowledge. It was first awarded in the United States in 1861 by Yale University. The University of Maryland awarded a Ph.D. for the first time in 1920.

The Master's Degree

The master's degree is an academic honor bestowed upon students who have successfully completed work beyond the baccalaureate.

A thesis and an oral examination are usually required. In 1920, the University of Maryland awarded its first Master of Arts (M.A.) and Master of Science (M.S.) degrees in fields other than agriculture.

The Bachelor's Degree

The bachelor's degree represents the completion of a four-year course of college-level study and is the oldest academic degree awarded by American institutions of higher learning. It was first conferred in America in 1642 on the first nine graduates of Harvard College. Maryland Agriculture College, which later became the University of Maryland, College Park, awarded its first Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) and Bachelor of Science (B.S.) in 1862.

Some people believe the only role for large corporations is to produce profits for their shareholders, and that it is up to individuals, private groups and government to bring about social change. “I beg to differ,” says Franklin D. Raines, chairman and CEO of Fannie Mae, the world’s largest non-bank financial institution and America’s leading supplier of low-cost funds for homebuyers.

“Large corporations are not exempt from social responsibility,” says Mr. Raines, who has led Fannie Mae since 1998 and also serves as chairman of the Fannie Mae Foundation, the nation’s largest foundation focused on housing and community development. Mr. Raines says that it is perfectly consistent with the free enterprise system for large corporations to focus attention on both shareholder profits and societal concerns, explaining that, “private enterprise and private markets can be harnessed to efficiently provide public goods and serve public needs.”

Mr. Raines describes the Washington, D.C.-based Fannie Mae as being in the “American Dream business,” with its mission to tear down barriers, lower costs and increase the opportunities for homeownership and affordable rental housing for all Americans. Asked why this is so important, Mr. Raines refers directly to the mission statement of Fannie Mae, which in part states that, “having a safe place to call home strengthens families, communities and our nation as a whole.”

Three years ago, Mr. Raines launched Fannie Mae’s “American Dream Commitment,” a pledge to provide $2 trillion for 18 million underserved families to own or rent affordable homes during the next decade. This 10-year commitment spearheaded by Mr. Raines focuses especially on minority, immigrant, lower-income and other Americans who are historically ignored or rejected by the financial system.

Reaching and serving underserved Americans has made Fannie Mae one of America’s most successful corporations, with 16 uninterrupted years of double-digit growth in core business earnings per share. Consistently named one of America’s best companies for minorities, women, working mothers and employees in general, Fannie Mae is regularly ranked among the leading annual “Best-Of” lists, including Business Ethics “100 Best Corporate Citizens.” The company was also the 2002 recipient of the Dr. Martin Luther King Center’s “Salute to Greatness Award.”

Before heading Fannie Mae, Mr. Raines served in President Bill Clinton’s cabinet as director of the Office of Management and Budget. It was Mr. Raines’ pragmatism and straight talk as the Clinton administration’s key negotiator that helped lead to passage of the bipartisan Balanced Budget Act of 1997. As such, Mr. Raines was the first OMB director in 30 years to produce a balanced federal budget.

Mr. Raines graduated magna cum laude with a B.A. degree from Harvard College. He received his J.D. degree cum laude from Harvard Law School and also attended Magdalen College, Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar.

Only a handful of American orchestral conductors have made their mark on the world stage by achieving international acclaim and recognition. Conductor and musician Leonard Slatkin is a member of this elite group, earning worldwide respect and appreciation for his imaginative musical programming that has spanned five continents.

In his primary role as music director of the National Symphony Orchestra for the last seven years, Mr. Slatkin has led the NSO on several successful Asian, European and U.S. tours. His frequent guest appearances with virtually all of the major orchestras and opera companies worldwide, including the New York and Berlin Philharmonics, Cleveland Orchestra, Vienna Staatsoper and Amsterdam Concertgebouw, have become a steady component in his celebrated schedule. He also serves as the chief conductor of the BBC Symphony Orchestra.

Besides this strong national and international reputation, he is known as a staunch and active advocate for music education here at home. He has participated in several benefit concerts to support young musicians, particularly the American Youth Philharmonic and the D.C. Youth Orchestra.

Prominent leadership in music has long played a major role in Mr. Slatkin's career. In 1969, he founded the Saint Louis Symphony Orchestra, serving as its music director for 17 years before taking up his current affiliation as the orchestra's conductor laureate. He also is well known for being the founder and director of the National Conducting Institute in Washington, D.C.—an advanced career development program that assists conductors making the transition to full-time conducting of major symphony orchestras.

The University of Maryland School of Music and the National Symphony Orchestra enjoy a harmonious relationship. Sixteen adjunct faculty members from the School of Music are also musicians in the NSO—and 12 of them are recognized as some of the NSO's principal players.

Further solidifying Mr. Slatkin's link to continuing music education, an NSO residency at the University of Maryland came to fruition this past year. The residency includes side-by-side performances of the NSO and artists in the School of Music, master classes, coaching and audition training with NSO musicians, and NSO music education activities for younger students in the Prince George's County school system.

Mr. Slatkin has built a discography that exceeds 100 recordings during the course of his 25-year career, earning five Grammy Awards along the way.

In nominating Allison Bigelow as University Medalist, a distinction reserved for the most outstanding graduate each academic year, an English professor wrote of the 22-year-old senior: "This young woman has character."

Character indeed. In her four years at Maryland, Bigelow has earned straight A's and two bachelor's degrees, one in English Language and Literature and another in Spanish Language and Literature. She is one of five graduating seniors in the College of Arts and Humanities to be named as a Dean's Senior Scholar and was invited to join Phi Beta Kappa in her junior year.

Her scholastic career at Maryland also includes citations from the CIVICUS and University Honors programs, as well as a successful defense of her thesis: "(In) Articulations of National Identity: Physical and Human Natures in Charles Brockden Brown's Edgar Huntly."

This impeccable academic record aside, Bigelow is driven by a pure quest for knowledge in both learning and teaching, which she says stems from the breadth and depth of scholarly opportunities available at Maryland. Several faculty members made note of her propensity to go above and beyond the average analytical classroom debate, as well as a zest for articulating original ideas and bringing outside sources to the discourse.

"In her contributions to class discussions... [Bigelow has] proven herself to be a lucid, critical, eloquent, and self-reliant thinker, an avid reader, and an extremely hard worker," wrote assistant professor of English Ralph Bauer.

Complementing her work ethic and resolve in the classroom, Bigelow also committed to between 10 and 15 hours each week with Beyond These Walls, a nonprofit organization working with English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL) adults and children in the nearby community of Langley Park. Through this outreach, Bigelow worked with entire families, teaching English to Spanish-speaking adults and then mentoring their children in after-school arts and reading programs.

Bigelow plans to go to Chile next year and teach English to corporate professionals, and then has aspirations to expand upon her undergraduate thesis more thoroughly in graduate school—while potentially turning her thesis to a book.

Besides her academic feats, "relationships" are what Bigelow is most proud to take with her as she leaves Maryland. "I have been very lucky to have met so many dedicated and supportive people," she says in discussing her fellow students and faculty, and the local families she worked with through her nonprofit outreach efforts.

Allison Bigelow

Recipient of the University Medal

Awarded at May Commencement to the graduating senior who best exemplifies academic distinction, extraordinary character and extracurricular contributions to the campus or public communities. Consisting of a gold medal and a cash prize, it is the highest honor the university can bestow upon a graduating senior.

Rebecca Ariel Hoffberg

When Rebecca Hoffberg arrived at the expansive Maryland campus four years ago, she recalls that at first the university seemed “too large, with too many people, to ever think I would get to speak to all of my fellow classmates.”

Graduating today summa cum laude with two degrees—a bachelor of arts in government and politics and a bachelor of science in mathematics—the 22-year-old Baltimore native says her experiences at Maryland represent a microcosm of the world around her. “It’s a big university,” Hoffberg says, “but I soon found it to be a community within a community. The university gave me the tools to find out who I am, taught me to live and work with others, and allowed me to try new things.”

Much of her learning experience came through the university’s living-learning Gemstone program. As part of a nine-member interdisciplinary research team interested in improving critical thinking and reasoning skills for young children, Hoffberg learned that her team members “needed to depend on each other in order to be successful.” The Gemstone students completed their four-year project by introducing a 3-D world travel board game called “Pack Your Bags!”

Hoffberg has also packed her own bags and traveled the world as a Terp. In the last two years, she has participated in the Oxford Study Abroad program, as well as traveled to Europe, Australia and New Zealand. Closer to home, Hoffberg presented a research paper at Rice University in Texas last year and traveled to a conference in Utah to present both her Gemstone research and a government and politics Honors research paper she began while studying at Oxford. She has extensively researched the constitutional issue of privacy as it relates to new advances in technology.

A Banneker/Key Scholar, Hoffberg’s list of academic honors includes Undergraduate Researcher of the Year, Truman Scholarship Finalist, as well as membership in Phi Beta Kappa, the Maryland Medallion Society and Omicron Delta Kappa Leadership Society. She also serves on the Senior Council and helps fellow students obtain proper legal counseling as an intern and Student Defender in the Undergraduate Student Legal Aid Office.

The immediate future calls for Hoffberg to complete a one-year master’s program at the London School of Economics and Political Science. Then it is on to law school and a possible career in child advocacy.

Hoffberg says of her undergraduate experience, “This university has just about anything you are looking for ... and if it doesn’t, there is usually the support here to start it yourself.”

Bachelor's degree candidates who have qualified for scholarship honors upon graduation are designated by appropriate symbols adjacent to their names within the alphabetical listing of colleges or schools.

To be eligible for consideration for such honors a candidate must meet the following general criteria: (1) have completed at least two years of work at the University of Maryland (60 semester hours, 30 of which were earned at the College Park campus) and (2) have a scholastic average of a "B" (grade point average of 3.0) or higher in the University of Maryland work prior to the last semester of registration before the awarding of a degree.

Degree candidates who have met these criteria are shown in the listings as qualifying, upon graduation, for the designators Summa cum Laude (if they ranked in the top 2 percent of the candidates in their respective colleges or schools), Magna cum Laude (if in the next 3 percent), or cum Laude (if in the next 5 percent) based on the grade point averages of students in the preceding three graduating classes of their degree-granting unit.

The May 2003 class roster comprises degree candidates from the graduate and undergraduate programs at the University of Maryland, College Park. As final action cannot always be taken for candidates by the time this program is printed, the list of candidates here is tentative only. The university reserves the right to withdraw or add names. Diplomas (for other than doctoral degrees) will be mailed by the Office of Records and Registration.

The Senior Marshal Program began in 1991 as an opportunity to acknowledge outstanding seniors at their commencement. The students selected to be marshals were nominated by faculty, administrators and staff for their outstanding accomplishments and contributions to the University of Maryland. We are proud to recognize these truly remarkable students.
